

ABSTRACT

Disclosed is a method of reducing drag in a fluid stream. The method includes admixing the components of a drag reducer to form an incipient drag reducer and 5 injecting the incipient drag reducer into the fluid stream wherein the drag reducer components are admixed at the site of the fluid stream.